

MacroShares Oil Declares Final Proceed Amounts

Madison, NJ , June 30, 2008 – MacroMarkets LLC today announced the final proceeds payable as a result of the liquidation of MacroShares Oil Up and Down.

MacroShares Oil's last day of trading on the American Stock Exchange was June 25, 2008 and all proceeds will be paid out on July 3, 2008 to shareholders of record as of June 30, 2008. The table below summarizes the breakdown of the proceeds at liquidation for MacroShares Oil Up (AMEX ticker: UCR) and MacroShares Oil Down (AMEX ticker: DCR).

Symbol	Symbol/Fund Name	Record Date	Payable Date	Final Underlying Value	Final Liquidation Payment	Miscellaneous Income
UCR	MacroShares Oil Up	6/30/08	7/3/08	$ 40.000343	$ 40	$ 0.000343
DCR	MacroShares Oil Up	6/30/08	7/3/08	$ 0	$ 0	$ 0

The end of trading marks the culmination of the MacroShares Oil lifecycle; UCR and DCR were launched on November 30, 2006 and concluded in a predetermined termination trigger, which was hit as oil approached record highs.

MacroShares Oil was designed to transfer assets between the Up and Down trusts as their NYMEX light sweet crude oil benchmark price moves. When launched, this benchmark oil price was $60. Since the securities transfer assets on a dollar-for-dollar basis, the Up Trust cannot deliver performance of the benchmark oil price beyond $120 (Up Trust's underlying value hits a ceiling once the Down Trust's underlying value is $0.00). With this in mind, MacroShares Oil originally built an early termination event into the security structure once oil prices approached $120. The early termination event occurred on April 16, 2008, when the benchmark oil price closed at or above $111 for the third consecutive business day.

The next MacroShares Oil products, MacroShares $100 Oil Up (AMEX ticker: UOY) and Down (AMEX Ticker: DOY) are scheduled to begin trading on the American Stock Exchange on July 1, 2008. The structure will be similar to that of the first MacroShares Oil (UCR and DCR) and will allow investors to benefit from either the upward or downward price movement of its benchmark NYMEX light sweet crude oil futures contract. MacroShares $100 Oil will be based on a reference price of $100 for the benchmarked NYMEX light sweet crude oil futures contract, and will cover a range of prices between $0 and $200, with a termination trigger occurring when the benchmarked NYMEX light sweet crude oil price closes at or above $185 for three consecutive business days.
