

MacroMarkets to Launch MacroShares $100 Oil on July 1

New Oil Security Delivers Commodity Performance without Investing in Futures Contracts

Madison, NJ , June 30, 2008 – MacroMarkets LLC is pleased to announce that it will launch its second MacroShares products, MacroShares $100 Oil Up (AMEX ticker: OUY) and MacroShares Oil Down (AMEX ticker: DOY) tomorrow when it rings the bell at the American Stock Exchange to open trading.

OUY and DOY are designed to transfer assets between the Up and Down trusts as their NYMEX light sweet crude oil benchmark price moves. The initial benchmark oil price will be $100 and shares will be launched at $25, or one-quarter of the benchmark oil price. The securities will transfer assets on a dollar-for-dollar basis between the Up and Down trusts as the benchmark price of the NYMEX light sweet crude oil benchmark price moves.

MacroShares $100 Oil is designed to hold the assets in short-term treasuries, overnight repurchase agreements or cash, but does not purchase oil futures to track the index. Additionally, MacroShares $100 Oil provides investors with a quarterly distribution when the Trusts' income exceeds expenses. UOY and DOY are designed to be five (5) year securities. MacroShares $100 Oil is based on a reference price of $100 for the benchmarked NYMEX light sweet crude oil futures contract, and will cover a range of prices between $0 and $200, with a termination trigger occurring when the benchmarked NYMEX light sweet crude oil price closes at or above $185 for three consecutive business days.

“Our first oil product gathered more than $1.5 billion in assets filling institutional and retail investor needs for accessing the oil market,” said Sam Masucci, MacroMarkets President and CEO “We anticipate that UOY and DOY will continue to fulfill this need and we have made enhancements to the products in response to investor requests. MacroShares $100 Oil is the next offering in what we anticipate to be a long line of innovate MacroShares products.”

Robert Shiller, renowned economist and MacroMarkets' co-founder commented, “As the price and volatility levels of crude oil reach historic heights, institutions and consumers stand to benefit from new, effective means of managing energy market exposure beyond the near term. As exchange-traded securities that trade like stocks, MacroShares $100 Oil can help people to more easily manage mounting risks and investment opportunities related to this fundamentally important commodity.”
